Wise or Unwise?

Practical Wisdom and the Life of Faith
“In a sense, wisdom is indistinguishable from the pursuit of it.”

Gabriel Marcel
Where is the wisdom we have lost in knowledge?

Where is the knowledge we have lost in information?

T. S. Eliot
“The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the Holy One is insight.”

Proverbs 9:10
The Creative Word: Canon as a Model for Biblical Education
(Walter Brueggemann, 1982)
Transmit the tradition
Keep it open

Live on God’s vast horizon
Care for the particular, the concrete, the nearby
Awe and reverence

Embodied practice in everyday life
John August Swanson

A Visit (1995)
“The Beginning of Wisdom”

a poem by Denise Levertov
(from The Stream and the Sapphire)